

ANNIE YOUNGERMAN
LANDSCAPE DESIGNER

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Design, Community & Environment, Berkeley, California. Landscape Designer. 2010. Responsible for research, report writing, design and graphics production for planning and design projects, with a focus on open space, trails, streetscapes, playground and waterfront projects.

Bay Tree Design, Berkeley, California. Designer. 2009. Assisted small firm with master planning process for green schoolyards through community participatory design. Created design workshop maps, and contributed to the master plan reports.

University of California, Berkeley. 2007 to 2008. Graduate Student Instructor. Assisted professor in a 20-person landscape architecture drawing course. Instructed a weekly section.

EDAW, San Francisco, California. Summer Intern. 2008. Assisted in all aspects of design in the San Francisco office landscape studio. Participated in a two design charrette with 25 other interns and design professionals in Los Angeles.

Build It Green, Berkeley, California. Program Assistant Intern. 2005 to 2006. Developed and conducted survey of local city Green Building activities and policies. Compiled information for use as a resource tool and political leverage. Collaborated in publicity and solicitation efforts for a water conservation showcase.

EDUCATION

Master in Landscape Architecture, University of California, Berkeley.

Bachelor of Arts, Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut.

Study Abroad, Universidad de Concepcion, Chile. Courses in industrial design, drawing, art history of Chile, and history of Chile.

VOLUNTEER ACTIVITIES

Urban Ecology, Oakland, California. Workshop Volunteer. 2005 to 2006. Facilitated community participation workshops to assist in design process.